

SO MUCH TO SAY!

April Newsletter

THE MONTH OF THE MILITARY CHILD

April is a special time for military families as we celebrate the Month of the Military Child. This period is dedicated to recognizing and honoring the sacrifices and contributions of military children, who play an integral role in their parents' service to our country.

The Month of the Military Child is an opportunity to highlight the unique experiences that military children face, such as frequent moves, school changes, and long periods of separation from their parents. It's a time to recognize their resilience, strength, and courage in the face of uncertainty. That's why at SAY, we offer programs and services specifically tailored to military families. From educational resources to social and emotional support, we are here to help military children and their families thrive.

Let's take a moment to thank and honor the brave young people who stand alongside their parents in service to our nation. We appreciate your service and sacrifice, and we are proud to support you. Share our military family resources with your network!
